Lieut. Col. Lee, military attache of the British embassy here, has been conferring with the War Department authorities as to methods of field telegraphy which might be serviceable in the South African cambe serviceable in the South African cam-paign. The American operations in Cuba and the Philippines have developed several novel and exclusive devices for emergency telegraph communication in the field, which, however, are not at the disposal of foreign governments. The understanding at the War Department is that Senor Marconi, the Italian expert, now in New York, may be chilisted by the British forces in adopting wireless communication in South Africa. It is stated, however, at the British embassy that no instructions in that direction have that no instructions in that direction has been received.
